Dear John:

As you will recall, I wrote you on 28 May that I was looking into the possibilities of employment for the young man whose name you were so good to give me.

You may be aware that our organization has now reached a point in its development where our personnel situation has considerably stabilized. As a consequence, our policy is to develop and promote from within the organization the qualified members of our career staff. At the present time, we are hiring only clerical and secretarial replacements as necessary and occasional personnel for our junior officer trainee program. We have considered him in the light of such requirements, but do not find a spot for him.

It was very thoughtful of you to bring his name to my attention and I am sorry that my reply cannot be more favorable.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,

SIGNED
